HAMPSHIRE COUNTY.

The county commissioners inspected the location of Strong's avenue at Northampton on Wednesday, and laid it out as a public street, in accordance with the petition of the Northampton and Williamsburg street railway company, who will now extend their track and make connections with their depot, the old American House, as soon as possible. The recent injunction procured by the New Haven and Northampton railroad company, to prevent the horse cars from running in front of their depot, does not practically amount to much, as their opponents openly defy the obstacle and continue to run their cars as usual over their entire line.
